

World Day against Child Labour

June 12th is World Day against Child Labour. It is a day to highlight and remember the millions of children who are engaged in work that deprives them of their right to education, health, leisure and free time and protection from harm.

It is estimated that there are 152 million children in child labour of which around 72 million are involved in hazardous and dangerous work such as mining, construction, agriculture and manufacturing. Around 22,000 of these children are killed each year. Remember the lessons we have already done in this topic and the novel Trash that we studied showing the desperate and terrible plight of these children?

Look at the pictures above. Think about the work these children are doing
How does it make you feel? Would you be able for this kind of work?
What rights are these children being deprived of?

You've been asked to design the poster for World Day against Child Labour 2021. Draw your design below. It should have the words World Day against Child Labour 2021 in it.
